COMMON GREEK VARIETIES

Asyrtiko

High- acid variety, native to Santorini, considered by many to make Greece's finest white. Usually used to make dry, racy wines with strong mineral character, citrus aromas mixed with an earthy, mineral aftertaste due to the volcanic soil of Santorini.

Malagouzia

Especially, aromatic white grape, cultivated mainly in Macedonia, leading to elegant light body wines, with medium acidity and exciting aromas of exotic fruits, citrus, jasmine and mint.

Moschofilero

A light pink-skinned variety, mostly common in Peloponnese, used to produce lively crisp wines as well as richer, fuller bodied- versions. Usually intensely fragrant, even pungent, with bright citrus character.

Vidiano

A white variety found in Crete. It produces wines with lemony green color, intense, individual and very complex aromas of ripe peach and apricot, hints of aromatic herbs and minerality.

Aghiorgitiko

This red variety, is most commonly found in Nemea-Peloponnese. It produces medium- to high- acid wines depending on elevations and soil profiles. Deep red fruits (plum and cherry) and spice. Considered to be one of Greece's best red varietals and biggest producing red variety.

Mavrodaphne

Mainly cultivated in the prefectures of Achaia, Iliia and Cephalonia. It gives deep colored wines with a complex aromatic character, that becomes even more complex while aging and maturing. Aromas of ripe red fruits are combined with the aromas of spices, tobacco and herbs. Exuberant flavors with moderate acidity.

Mavrotragano

Until recently, this red grape variety with its black "mavro" and crisp "tragano" berries—hence, was merely blended in the Santorini sweet wines and had become all but extinct. Redolent of red currants, spices, with opulent fruit, overlaid with mineral notes, and wrapped in, finely-grained tannins. An outstanding variety with great aging potential.

Xinomavro

Considered one of Greece's greatest varietals and responsible for its most serious reds. Mostly found in Naoussa- Macedonia. Notoriously fickle to grow, it is a late-ripening variety, producing powerful, structured, richly flavored wines with solid tannins.
